Sikh architecture is a lively blend of the Mughal and Rajput styles. Onion-shaped domes, multi-foil arches, paired pilasters, in-lay work, frescoes, etc. are of Mughal extraction, more specially of Shah Jahan's period, while oriel windows, bracket supported eaves at the string-course, chattris, richly ornamented friezes, etc., are derived from elements of Rajput architecture such as is seen in Jaipur, Jodhpur, Bikaner and other places in Rajasthan.

Our answer is embodied in our newest initiative: Saving Our Heritage. The partition of Punjab, in 1947, caused one of the largest migrations in human history. The uprooted Sikh community was forced to leave behind its cultural legacy in West Punjab – monuments and buildings (gurudwaras, havelis, samadhs, forts etc. built by our ancestors). These revered sites and the rich history associated with them has been decimated by urban development and are now threatened by willful destruction ...

The Red Fort is a historic fort in the city of Delhi (in Old Delhi) in India that served as the main residence of the Mughal Emperors. Emperor Shah Jahan commissioned construction of the Red Fort on 12 May 1638, when he decided to shift his capital from Agra to Delhi. Originally red and white, its design is credited to architect Ustad Ahmad Lahori, who also constructed the Taj Mahal.
